Frosty Fun

AND SNOWBALL RUNS

Winter in Truckee is more than just skiing and riding! It's also a magical place to build snowman, race down packed snow in a sled or tube, and create lasting memories in the Sierra. Whether you're two or 102, snowplay never gets old. So bundle up, grab a thermos of hot chocolate, and head out to one of the many areas in Truckee that offer sledding, tubing, snowball fights, fort and snowman building, and so much more.

Leave the Hassle at Home at Tahoe Donner Snowplay

Spend your day flying down tubing and sledding lanes, then head to the free-play area for snowball fights, building snowmen, or making snow angels. One entry fee covers everything, including all the gear you need; sleds and tubes are provided.

The gentle hills make it an excellent spot for younger kids, and there are monitored tubing lanes for added safety. Remember to wear snow boots because you'll be walking back up the hill after each ride. It's the perfect spot to enjoy some classic winter fun without bringing anything but your warm clothes! Learn more at tahoedonner.com/snowplay.

Get Your Sugar Rush at Sugar Bowl Resort

Nothing is sweeter than perfect snow on a bluebird day! Sugar Rush at Sugar Bowl Resort offers 10 unique tubing lanes, each with a different experience, so there's plenty of variety for all ages. After each run, hop on the 500-foot covered moving carpet, which takes you back to the top for more sliding. For families with younger kids, the snowplay area includes Burton Riglet Boards, mini-tubes, a snow Rotunda, and the popular Snow Volcano. Tubes are included with admission, and food and drinks are available for purchase on-site. Learn more at sugarbowl.com/tubing.

Tahoe Tubing Is Fast and Easy at Boreal Mountain

Boreal Mountain's Tahoe Tubing offers 90 minutes of snowplay, with scheduled sessions designed to keep the stoke high and the wait times low. Plus, Boreal's magic carpet will bring you right back to the top, so you can spend more time sliding and less time climbing.

No need to bring your own gear—Boreal provides fast, comfortable tubes for everyone. All you need are warm clothes and a smile.

Learn more at rideboreal.com.

Visit Planet Kids and Tube Town at Soda Springs Resort

Planet Kids at Soda Springs Resort is designed especially for the little ones; from a tubing carousel to a mini magic carpet that gently brings them back up the slope, it's a perfect space for the littlest snow lovers to play. Kids can also explore snow volcanoes, enjoy terrain-based learning at the Woodward Start Park, or take their first steps on skis or a snowboard.

Tube Town offers up to 10 groomed tubing lanes for older kids and adults, complete with a 400-foot surface lift that takes the work out of getting back to the top. The Family Fun Zone is perfect for younger kids who aren't quite ready for the bigger slopes but still want to join in on the snow-filled fun.

Guests can access Planet Kids, Tube Town, and Woodward Start Park with a Mountain Adventure ticket. Learn more at skisodasprings.com/mountain-adventure.

Snowplay Areas Around Town

Check out these local gems if you're looking for something more relaxed and off the beaten path. You'll love the quiet atmosphere and woodsy feel of these non-resort locations.

Glacier Way Trailhead

Located at the top of Tahoe Donner, this spot offers parking, trash bins, and trails with stunning views. Bring your snowshoes and explore! The lot does get busy on the weekends, so make sure you plan ahead or take TART Connect. Always bring a backpack with water, snacks, a compass, a map, and a charged phone.

West End Beach, Donner Lake

The Truckee Donner Land Trust has partnered with the Tahoe Backcountry Alliance and the Truckee Recreation and Park District to provide tons of room for snowplay and snowman building! Enjoy the winter lake and wide open space with your family and friends.

Truckee River Regional Park

With flat fields, nooks and crannies, and sledding when conditions allow, the Truckee River Regional Park is an easy-access spot to build snowmen, have a snowball fight, and strap on snow shoes for exploring. The park also offers an ice skating rink for more winter fun!

Johnson Canyon

Managed by the Truckee Donner Land Trust, Johnson Canyon offers a peaceful forest escape with gentle hills, tall pines, and open spaces—perfect for snowplay. Take the Donner Lake exit on Interstate 80 and head north from the off-ramp to get there.

Old Greenwood Conservation Easement

The Truckee Donner Land Trust also clears the parking area at the Old Greenwood conservation easement on the north-west corner of the Overland Trail exit off of Interstate 80. There are no restrooms or trash facilities, so please make sure and pack out all garbage, pet waste, and sleds.

Mclver Dairy Meadow

Once a working dairy, this meadow has become a popular spot for sledding and snowplay. Be sure to only sled within the designated snow play areas; restoration efforts have transformed the area into a habitat for native plants and wildlife. Parking is available on the street, but be careful with the little ones if you're parked across from the meadow. Please be mindful of packing out everything you bring!

Pitch-in and Pack-Out for a Sustainable and Eco-Friendly Truckee!

With so many visitors and locals enjoying the winter fun in Truckee, we all have to do our part to ensure the area stays beautiful and clean. Keep these tips in mind to stay safe and sustainable.

1. Choose a Durable Sled: Opt for wooden, metal, or inflatable sleds to avoid breakage.
2. Pack Out What You Pack In: Take broken sleds, trash, and all waste with you (including your pet's).
3. Respect Signage: Avoid sensitive restoration areas, especially at Mclver Dairy Meadow.
4. Plan for Parking: Parking fills up quickly at popular spots, so arrive early or have a backup plan.

Dress in layers, pack extra snacks and hot drinks, and finally — have fun exploring, sliding, and making those lasting winter memories.

HOW LONG IN TRUCKEE

I moved here in September of 2001

WHY TRUCKEE

My story is super original... for the mountains and all the things that come with the lifestyle, and the tight community that has kept me here.

FAVORITE THINGS ABOUT TRUCKEE

Truckee has an incredible mix of being far enough away from it all but still close enough to not be so remote. The weather is a huge factor and of course skiing, biking, and hiking. I love our “bubble.” Over the years the community has been great to me and my career, going back to my days at the newspaper to where I am now as a freelancer working with such a wide scope of our community. It's what's really kept me here.

Over the years, Court has helped the Humane Society of Truckee Tahoe (HSTT) in a variety of ways because, “They do such an amazing job and their need for help is ongoing (get involved!).” Court has done animal transports, volunteer photography/ videography, therapy dog work and he's also fostered... which is why he now has two dogs from the shelter (one is a foster fail). When COVID hit and things shut down, like many, Court wanted to help. He realized that telling stories and raising awareness to what people were struggling with, and more importantly how people could help, was something he could do - producing terrific videos about small business owners. It really connected him to the community in a different and more intimate way. Business owners were open with their time, and with what they were going through. One told him that it was a special time, not a great time, but it was a special time and that always stuck with him — a time that he hopes we never see again.

SORAYA MD

Holistic Health and Personalized Care

Led by Dr. Michelle Soraya Pourtabib, MD, Soraya MD integrates Eastern and Western medical traditions for personalized care that focuses on long-term wellness. She offers a blend of primary care, functional medicine, and weight loss coaching, and her services are available in person and through telemedicine.

Dr. Michelle Soraya Pourtabib comes from a long line of doctors—her surname, “Pourtabib,” means “child of a physician,” speaking to the legacy of healing that runs through her family, which dates back generations.

Before entering the medical field, Dr. Pourtabib taught yoga, Pilates, and meditation and provided Ayurvedic massage. This work led to deeper studies into health science, leading to her medical degree. This background in both eastern healing practices and modern medical science informs her integrative approach.

As the only board-certified obesity medicine specialist in North Lake Tahoe, Dr. Pourtabib offers knowledge in weight loss and metabolic health. She's a board-certified family and obesity medicine physician with specialized expertise in functional medicine.

What Is Functional Medicine?

It's an integrative approach to healthcare that looks at the root causes of illness rather than simply treating symptoms. This patient-centered model focuses on understanding how the body's systems are interconnected. Spending up to an hour with each patient, Dr. Pourtabib listens to their health story and develops personalized care plans that address their unique needs.

Her practice also supports perimenopause and menopause, insomnia, and chronic health concerns. Every patient is treated as an individual, with care plans that are customized to their specific health goals. Learn more at sorayamd.com.

HOW LONG IN TRUCKEE 14 years

WHY TRUCKEE

I drove out West with a friend in 2010 with the intention of just being a ski bum for a few months. There was a double rainbow as we were going over Emerald Bay, and I knew it was a good omen. The community welcomed me with open arms and it felt like I was always meant to be here.

FAVORITE THINGS ABOUT TRUCKEE

My favorite things about Truckee are change of seasons and the outdoor activities we get to enjoy with each turn of tide. The view isn't bad either! I enjoy cross-country and downhill skiing as much as I love biking, hiking and swimming in our clean lakes and river. Of course, the community is on the top of the list as well. Truckee seems to attract like-minded people who are stewards of the land and our quality of life. Truckee locals always do it with a smile and sense of humor.

Sara has a degree in Painting and Art Education. She owned an art gallery in Maine before entering a career in the financial industry, where she built relationships with over 100 local Truckee merchants. Her passion for art has come full-circle, and she is living the dream as an artist and co-owner of Gallery 5830' in downtown Truckee with her husband, Curtis Blassingame. She is a 12-year Truckee Rotarian and past president, has sponsored two Cambodian students through University, and her family's next goal is to fund a well in Africa through Charity:Water.

TRUCKEE Winter Carnival

PAST AND PRESENT By Judy DePuy

The Winter Carnival has been a Truckee tradition since 1895. Truckee is known as a rustic, historic mountain town, but few people think of it as the town that introduced winter sports to the West.

In the late 1890s, winter found Truckee usually snowbound and in decline. Summertime had loggers working in the timber and lumber industry. The main winter industry was the harvesting of ice but it was limited and did not span the entire snow season. During this time, most businesses had little new clientele and revenues were scarce. There was a plethora of bars on main street but that only reinforced Truckee's rough and tumble reputation.

Charles F. McGlashan, a prominent citizen of Truckee, understood that getting visitors to Truckee in the winter was possible because the railroad could make it across the mountain. All he needed to do was figure out a way to entice people to get off the train and stay in Truckee.

A Winter Carnival

In 1894 McGlashan (an educator, scientist, lawyer, journalist, entrepreneur, inventor, historian, collector, politician, and father of a talented family) set his sights on creating a spectacle that would amaze everyone on the train.

He started by building a giant inverted cone structure made of wood covered with wire netting that he sprayed with water on the hill above the town. When the temperatures plummeted, it formed a huge shimmering cone lit by an arc lamp. The ice cone dominated the Truckee skyline at the Rocking Stone and was visible from the train depot. The icicle did get people's attention.

From there McGlashan decided that he needed to build an ice palace on Front Street (today's Donner Pass Road). Ice palaces have existed elsewhere but Truckee's ice palace was the first of its kind in the West. The goal was to make Truckee "the place to go to in the winter and spend time at." McGlashan even patented his ice palace design.

The first ice palace had walls 50 feet high and 3 feet deep with a hollow center gallery. Cedar and pine trees rimmed the top. The hollow center section was used for storing snow which collected on the roof. Only a thin sheet of ice was left on the roof allowing sunlight to come through. At night 20 huge arc lamps were turned on for night ice skating and rendered an eerie glow.

McGlashan also wanted the first winter carnival to be fun for everyone and not necessarily for profit. He worked with local businesses to create a fun family environment with a collection of events and attractions including a toboggan slide, ski jumping contests, dogsled races, horse-drawn sleigh rides, and of course, ice skating in the Ice Palace.

The ice palace took half the block of old town and was not attractive in the summer months. The original ice palace also had its issues with warm winter weather melting all the fabulous decorations inside and outside of the palace. The palace fell into disrepair and was declared unfit and was torn down in the late 1890s.

The Second Ice Palace

The Truckee winter carnival faded from public view until its revival in 1909. The carnival was brought back and included ice skating, tobogganing, skiing, ski jumps, sledding and snowballing. In 1910, the first steam-powered donkey engine, connected to a cable, hauled tobogganers up Hilltop (next to the current Cottonwood Restaurant) making the toboggan run much easier, faster and more enjoyable. Wooden spikes located in the middle of the toboggan ramp would fold down to allow the sled to go up the ramp but would pop up again to prevent the sled from careening out of control down the ramp if the tow rope broke. This lift is generally believed to be the first mechanical lift for winter sports in the United States.

The second ice palace was built across the river at the base of Hilltop in 1913. The carnival's name was changed to "Fiesta of the Snows" and was a huge success. The Marysville Democrat newspaper had an eyewitness who reported that the reconstructed ice palace "was a dream of dazzling beauty and superior to the old palace. The skating gallery had a surface like a great big mirror. Jeweled icicles hanging in clusters from the arched ceiling of the ice gallery sparkled with all the color of a beautiful rainbow creating an appearance of ‘unusual splendor!’ The new ice palace had several rooms with open fireplaces for much appreciated warmth.

Trains came to Truckee with sleeper, smoker, baggage, dining, observation, buffet and entertainment cars which served as temporary hotel accommodations to support the small town and its growing flow of visitors. The mountains were beautiful and the town went out of their way to make sure everyone felt welcome. There was also dancing, food, movie company filming, dog sled races and demonstrations of the rotary snow plows.

The second ice palace burned down in June 1915 and like most things in Truckee, was not rebuilt.

Follow-On Events

Over the years there have been many winter activities to keep Truckee viable and winter sports have thrived here.

In February 1919, Truckee held a 2-weekend event that had a toboggan slide, sleigh rides and entertainment on Front Street. In the 1920s there were skiing lessons on Hilltop. Note that sport skiing was still a novelty (flat wood boards with a leather strap to hold your feet in). It was not for the meek of heart but for the adventurer. The 1930s had skiing, toboggan riding, and ice skating. 1930 also brought a formidable ski jump to Hilltop. It was in use for many years but there are stories of some of the skiers climbing to the top of the rickety structure and being terrified. The ski jump was finally torn down in the 1950s.

Revival of the Truckee Winter Carnival

In February, 2024 the Museum of Truckee History and Truckee Donner Recreation and Parks District brought back the Truckee Winter Carnival. There were planned events all weekend, with various activities including snow sculptures and snowman building, sled dog demonstrations, historic tours and presentations, and fun winter games. Regretfully Mother Nature won, and like the first 1895 carnival, there was too little snow on Saturday and a blizzard on Sunday. Many of the Friday and Saturday events went on as scheduled (the dog sled demonstration was one of the highlights) but the snow activities had to be canceled. Welcome to Truckee.

2025 once again brings back the Winter Carnival with new activities and a flexible date that will be updated based on conditions.

The Truckee Winter Carnival is a great time to enjoy the beauty of the Sierra. To keep abreast of the latest information, registrations, and more, please visit these websites or scan the QR codes below.

TDPUD IS PLANNING FOR Our Energy Future

Truckee's energy demand is growing, and we're working to prepare our community for the future. Everything from upgrading our system's capacity, mapping future energy use against available resources, and helping residents be more energy efficient are all pieces of the energy puzzle. TDPUD will figure out how to meet demand, but you control that demand.

Mapping Growth

It's important that TDPUD understands the what, when, and where of expected energy growth, so we're able to balance supply and demand. For example, our new Time-of-Use rate helps spread energy load more evenly throughout the day.

Forecasting Needs

TDPUD created its first Integrated Resource Plan this year, which helps us forecast our energy demand over the next 15 years. This helps ensure we have long-term energy purchasing contracts in place to meet that expected demand each year, day, and hour, and that we're continuing to increase our carbon-free energy purchases.

Funding Efficiency

For those ready to make their homes more energy efficient, start with the rebates TDPUD offers for simpler upgrades, like fixing leaky windows and adding insulation. If you're looking to take the next step and electrify your appliances, we offer rebates on EV chargers, heat pumps, and induction cooktops.

The Hows and Whys of Truckee

Publicizing Events In Truckee-Tahoe

When you consider the time invested in planning and organizing an event—from deciding on the theme, securing a location, working out logistics, recruiting volunteers, to rounding up auction items and more—it highlights the importance of effective publicity. While Truckee folks often commit close to the date, many people still discover events just a day before or even afterward.

Promoting your event in Truckee is all about reaching locals and visitors alike through well-placed advertising and tapping into popular community channels. Placing ads in local newspapers, magazines, and the radio are effective ways to get the word out. Here are some key strategies to publicize events that are free and help ensure your event gets noticed.

Submit to Event Calendars

Local online event calendars are great resources to expand your event's reach. Start with Truckee.com - as one of the longest-running Truckee websites, Truckee.com boasts great SEO - often at the top of every Truckee-Tahoe event search. Also, the Truckee Chamber promotes member events in our e-newsletters, sending thousands directly to our calendar each time. For additional visibility, submit to Moonshine Ink, Sierra Sun, and 101.5 KTKE Radio. All offer online event calendars and are well-read by locals. Make sure to provide all the key details, including event date, time, location, a photo, and a brief description to make your listing stand out.

Reserve Banner Locations

One of the most visible ways to promote your event is by reserving banner space in high-traffic areas around Truckee. The three highest-traffic locations are at the Gateway Plaza in front of the Safeway shopping center on the corner of HWY-89 and Donner Pass Rd., the Mountain Hardware spot directly across from it, and in front of the Truckee Welcome Center at the Train Depot on Donner Pass Rd. in downtown Truckee. You'll need to plan ahead, the Safeway spot typically books up a year in advance and annual events have often already reserved the spot. Email Kimco to reserve: SWestmoreland@kimcorealty.com. For the Mountain Hardware placement, call 530-587-4844 to reserve. Downtown at the Truckee Welcome Center, there is more than one space for banners, so space is more readily available. Call or email Ruth Geresy with the Truckee Chamber to reserve a spot: ruth@truckee.com, 530-412-7062. Your banner size should be 3' x 8' with reinforced grommet holes on all four edges and wind slits. Be sure to write your name and phone number on the back of your banner for return.

Although not Town-approved, you may also be able to hang banners on the fence at Truckee Elementary School. Contact Tahoe Truckee Unified School District for availability and permission. Please note: placing banners without permission can result in your banner being removed and you may not get it back.

Social Media And Personal Invitations

Promoting your event on Facebook and Instagram well in advance and sharing updates and photos regularly can greatly boost awareness. Encourage your team and organization to share posts to extend the reach, as engagement metrics like likes and shares reveal audience interest and help tailor promotions. Boosting posts on Facebook is also a cost-effective way to reach a wider audience compared to traditional media. Social media allows for real-time updates, perfect for last-minute reminders or changes. Don't forget to leverage your email list and invite friends and partners to spread the word, as personal invitations and emphasizing your nonprofit's mission can inspire support and attendance.

During and After Your Event

Make sure you have a good photographer to take photos at the event, even if it's a volunteer with an iPhone. Sharing post-event photos in your newsletters and on social media is important to keep your audience engaged for future events. It provides recognition and validation to contributors and attendees and provides a reference point and reminder of the positive experience for publicizing the event the next year.

Scan this QR code or visit Truckee.com for tips to easily post events on the Truckee.com calendar.

ORIGINALLY FROM

Quincy, CA, born and raised!

HOW LONG IN TRUCKEE 24+ years: Winter seasonally beginning in 1997, full-time in 2000.

WHY TRUCKEE

I moved to Truckee initially for seasonal winter work at Sugar Bowl Ski Area while attending college, drawn by the allure of the snow-covered mountains and the promise of adventure. Luckily, upon graduation, I was offered a full-time, year-round job that I loved. The vibrant community and endless outdoor activities captivated me, making leaving impossible. As soon as I graduated, I packed my bags and embraced the Truckee lifestyle, eager to explore all the beauty and excitement this region offers.

FAVORITE THINGS ABOUT TRUCKEE

I love living in Truckee for its incredible access to trails and outdoor activities that connect me to nature year-round. In the winter, there's nothing like a great ski day with friends, enjoying the breathtaking mountain top views. When summer arrives, I always try to start or end each adventure with a refreshing dip in a lake or river. Often swimming 12 months of the year. The mix of second homeowners and long-term residents creates a vibrant community, all passionate about this beautiful region. What truly makes Truckee unique is the friendly, like-minded people who share my love for the outdoors. Whether it's joining a local event, meeting a friend for a long run, or the camaraderie and warmth of the community that make this town feel like home.

With more than 20 years of operations experience, Jaime has been a pivotal member of the Martis Camp team, providing exceptional service to members and owners. General Manager Scott Bower praised Jaime for her significant contributions to environmental initiatives, community engagement, and collaboration with local leaders on wildfire mitigation and community resources. Jaime is committed to enhancing the member experience while fostering strong relationships within the Truckee-Tahoe community. In her free time, you can find Jaime at the local CrossFit gym, running the trails, or swimming in Donner Lake or Lake Tahoe year-round.
